Great Game on Saturday Is Notable Foot-Ball Event of the Week.

HOT FIGHT IS EXPECTED

Eli Very Strong, But Season Has Been Full of Surprises. Foot-Ball Notes

The notable foot-ball event of the week will be the game on Saturday between Yale and Princeton. The interest of sporting croles and Princeton. The interest of sporting croles in the result of the great game expected is steadily increasing, and a number of bets are being booked. The ruling odds on Yale are 1 to 5, though there is some even money to be found. The Philadeiphia Inquirer predicts a Yale victory, but declares that neither team will be beaten until the last pay is made. The Booton Record, while recognizing the impregable character of Elis's defense and the strength of the mighty forward line, is not strength of the mighty forward line, is not

e. This paper says: coton has lest many of her last year's Princeton has lest many of her mass years as star performers, she has suffered reverses, she has been slow to develop, and in every way seems a weaker team. Yet the indomitable Princeton spirit must still be considered a factor in the game. No Princeton team, however weak, has been beaten until the last Expect Good Game.

Harvard men have more reason than has hitherio been cansistent with the toam's showing to expect a good game with Xine. The team's development in the receive The men set in the contest with more vim, there seemed be more spirit, in their work and then were nearer the height of training and form. Whether or not the slow tactics used at present in the backfield will be successful against the New Haven men, is a thing of conjecture. The tandem formation, so close to the line of necessity limits the various of plays that it is possible to successfully carry out.

to the line of necessity limits the varioty of plays that it is possible to successfully carry out.

To start an end play from this formation is almost impossible, unless the man carrying the ball has unusual speed, the wide circle that must be taken to avoid his own line better that must be taken to avoid his own line better that must be taken to avoid his own line better that the very moment he needs to use all his reargy to avoid the opposing forwards. Harvard has the material and the coaches, that should have, with concentrous work, useam worthy of Yale's best endeavors. The without for the Crimon seems more kepetitioner, that Yale game will be far from a walknowr for the Blue.

The passing of DeWitt, who made it possible for a weaker all-round team to beat a much stronger one, means probably that Princeton can decen all to the country of the Blue.

Both egainst Cornell and gainst West foint, Princeton has shown an ability to play upfull game after being first scored upon. This is characteristic of Princeton teams, but also shows that Princeton is formidable. Conch Robinson, of the Brown team, says and Yale's defense is a most impregnable, ut he does not think so highly of the Endr's activities. Princeton has proved horself a coring team, but her defense has been examined that her mighty forward line, will we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this we a strong favorite for the game, but this

Harvard has been known to do a lot in two eks before a Yale game. The Crimson may unter down to New Haven with a few ards that haven't been dealt.

Burke hesn't evirely got over his tendency of tumble, especially when the play rushes

tim a 511. The head coach of Brown University gives it is its opinion that any team which tackles wand hard will stop Yale's advance. And wand for will stop Yale's advance. And the second of the second wand hard will stop Yale's advance. And lidy Cross has spolled two clean records his season, being the only team its second Dartmouth and Amberst. Woodsheds at Princeton are being carefully upplied with combination time locks, antistigning that the Tigers may win.

Dr. Carl S. Williams, the head coach of the University of Perimylvania foot-ball team, who has piloted the fortunes of the Rad and Rius from the despire into which it was bunged three years ago to the recent victory over Harvard, gill probably resign at he close of the precept season to give his autre time to his phofesion. The plan which a being so carefully developed at Pennsylvania s that of a recular graduate concline swetch, as the close George Brookers and wharlow are menioned as possibilities.

BOWKER SAYS HE WILL NOT COME TO AMERICA to coming to this side for big money and a possible beating under regulations with which he is not familiar.

Out of his decision will prebably come a meeting with Harry Forbes, as the latter is rather soft on the idea of soing over to box Bowker. Jim Nell, who admits that his son lies no chance with Bowker under the English rules, is of the opinion that Forbes can beat the Briton handly, Harry's style, with his clever use of hands and feet, being better adapted to combat with Bowker than Nell's slugging methods.

As a victory over Bowker would return to Forbes the title that Nell took from him, a match with Howker looks good to the Chicago boy, and may be arranged easily, even for the companitive arranged easily, even for the companitive unit of the Soft hat the Nell took of the took of
